

SVENSKA AKADEMIENS NOBELKOMMITTÉ

Stockholm, December 2021

Every year we address ourselves to a random selection of universities all over the world to remind them that all professors of literature and modern languages have the right to propose candidates for the Nobel Prize in Literature. This right is however permanent and is not dependent on the receipt of such an invitation.

Enclosed you will find a number of invitations, which we ask you to distribute to those members of your staff whose particular field of interest is modern literature (i.e. works by authors now living).

Sincerely yours,

Anders Olsson
Chairman of the Nobel Committee of the Swedish Academy

THE SWEDISH ACADEMY

The Nobel Committee

On behalf of the Swedish Academy, we have the honour of inviting you to nominate a candidate (or candidates) for the Nobel Prize in Literature for the year 2022. A statement of the reasons for the nomination is desirable though not essential. When considering nominees, please take a broad view with regard to genre, gender and geographical distribution.

In order to receive consideration, your proposal must reach the Nobel Committee, which is entrusted with preparing the Academy's discussion of the award, no later than 31 January 2022. The Nobel Committee will treat all nominations, which must be signed by the nominator, in the strictest confidentiality and expects that nominators will similarly respect the secrecy it enjoins.

Nominations should be addressed to:

*The Nobel Committee of the Swedish Academy
Box 2118
SE-103 13 Stockholm
Sweden*

Nominations submitted by e-mail will not be accepted. Only envelopes are accepted, parcels will not be opened.

STOCKHOLM, DECEMBER 2021

ANDERS OLSSON

Chairman
